THE CLUB

Portland Thorns FC, founded in 2012, wasted no time establishing itself as one of the most successful and trailblazing teams in the NWSL and professional women's sports. In their inaugural 2013 season, the Thorns made an immediate impact by winning the very first NWSL Championship, sending a clear message of the organization's intention to compete and make history. With a league-leading 3 NWSL Championships (2013, 2017, 2022), there is no denying the Thorns' dominance.

The Thorns have set high standards with their performances, consistently finishing in the top three all but two seasons of their 11-year history—a feat no other team in the league can claim. They've reached the playoffs in 10 of 11 regular seasons (2013-14, 2016-19, 2021-24), the most playoff appearances of any NWSL club. In addition to their championship successes, the Thorns claimed the 2016 and 2021 NWSL Shields, the 2020 Community Shield with the best record in the NWSL Fall Series, and the 2021 NWSL Challenge Cup. The club further solidified its status as a global powerhouse when they lifted the 2021 Women's International Champions Cup.

Names like Christine Sinclair, Tobin Heath, Lindsey Horan, Becky Sauerbrunn, Sophia Wilson, and Adrianna Franch are not just pivotal to the Thorns' success—they are legends of both the club and the league. These iconic figures have left an indelible mark on women's soccer, shaping the history of the Portland Thorns and the NWSL. Their remarkable skill, leadership, and impact on the game have made them global icons and some of the most recognizable names in women's soccer history.

Off the field, the Thorns have set the standard for fan engagement in women's sports. The club led the NWSL in attendance for 9 consecutive seasons from 2013 to 2021, culminating in a league-then-record 25,218 fans at Providence Park for a thrilling 2019 match against the North Carolina Courage. Not only that, but Portland became the first women's club in the world to average more than 10,000 fans per season starting in 2013, and then more than 20,000 fans per season in 2019.

As of 2024, under the new ownership of Alex Bhathal and Lisa Bhathal Merage, Portland is set to build on its rich history of success. With a legacy of 3 championships, 2 NWSL Shields, and an impressive international tournament record—including qualifying for the inaugural Concacaf W Champions Cup semifinals this May—the Thorns are positioned to continue breaking barriers and rewriting the history books in both domestic and global women's soccer.

The team crest was designed by artist and Timbers Army member Brent Diskin. Its design originally featured the team colors of red, black, and white “with a protective wreath of thorns surrounding a familiar, stylized rose in the center.” The design also includes a pair of four-pointed stars, or hypocycloids, that house the letters “F” and “C” and anchor the sides of the badge, and resemble the star prominent on Portland’s official city flag.

From 2018 onward, the team’s primary crest was reduced from four to two colors, typically either with a red or black background and red or white features. The team completed its transition to a two- or one-color crest in 2019, when it revealed new secondary kits that discarded the four-color crest. The original design would not reappear in the team’s identity until March 2023, with a “Heritage” designation as part of new secondary kits.

PROVIDENCE

PARK

Providence Park is the home stadium of Portland Thorns FC, located in the Goose Hollow neighborhood of Portland, Oregon. As the the oldest soccer-specific stadium in American professional soccer, it has a rich history, dating back to 1893. Originally known as Multnomah Stadium, it has undergone multiple renovations and name changes, with its current name resulting from a partnership with Providence Health & Services in 2014.

The stadium underwent significant upgrades in 2011 to accommodate professional soccer matches and in 2019, further expansion raised the seating capacity to 25,218 to enhance the fan experience. The Thorns FC began playing at Providence Park in 2013, and the stadium continues to host their home matches.

The facility includes modern amenities, including premium seating, multiple video boards, and an expanded East End with three additional seating decks. Providence Park remains a soccer-centric venue, known for its consistent sell-outs, offering a fan-friendly environment in the heart of the city for both the Thorns and Timbers.

Providence Park continues to serve as an essential asset for Portland, becoming one of the most iconic grounds in the country and serving as the heart of the Portland Thorns community.

Jeff Agoos was named President and General Manager of Soccer Operations for Portland Thorns FC on January 7, 2025. A legendary figure in American soccer, Agoos brings unparalleled expertise and an extensive track record of success to his leadership role with the Thorns.

Agoos is one of the most accomplished players in Major League Soccer (MLS) history, with a career that spanned more than a decade at the highest levels of the game. As a standout defender for the U.S. Men's National Team, Agoos earned 134 caps and represented his country in three FIFA World Cups—1994, 1998, and 2002. His defensive prowess and leadership on the international stage were integral to the success of the U.S. during his tenure, and he remains a central figure in the country's soccer history.

A key contributor to the dominance of MLS in its early years, Agoos played for two of the league's most successful franchises—D.C. United and the San Jose Earthquakes. During his career, he amassed five MLS Cup championships, the most by any player in league history. His time with D.C. United saw him win MLS titles in 1996, 1997, and 1999, while his later years with San Jose were highlighted by additional titles in 2001 and 2003, cementing his place as one of the league's most decorated players. In recognition of his extraordinary career, Agoos was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame in 2009.

Following his retirement from playing in 2005, Agoos transitioned to executive leadership, where he has continued to shape the landscape of American soccer. He served as Technical Director for the New York Red Bulls, a role in which he was responsible for overseeing player development, team operations, and strategic direction. Most recently, Agoos held the position of Senior Vice President of Competition, Operations, and Medical at Major League Soccer.
