Club History

When the National Women's Soccer League (NWSL) was founded in 2012, the Washington, D.C. area was selected as one of eight markets that would field a team to compete in the competition's inaugural season. The team's name was announced as the Washington Spirit in December 2012. Since its founding, the Spirit has participated in all 13 seasons of the league thus far, with its best result coming in 2021 when Washington defeated the Chicago Red Stars to win the club's first-ever NWSL Championship.

After joining the club as a minority investor in 2021, visionary businesswoman Michele Kang became the majority owner of the Spirit prior to the 2022 season and brought in basketball legend Earvin "Magic" Johnson as a club investor in 2024. Under Kang, the Spirit has seen remarkable growth as a professional club. In her first year at the helm, Kang brought in one of college soccer's most successful head coaches in Mark Krikorian and struck a deal to have the Spirit play all home matches at Audi Field, DC's soccer-specific stadium as part of her vision to build a 'premier, professional and proudly DC' women's soccer team.

The Spirit began playing select matches at Audi Field in Washington, D.C. during the 2018 season before moving to the venue full-time prior to the 2023 season. The club regularly draws impressive crowds at its home matches and has seen a consistent increase in average attendance since becoming tenants at Audi Field. In the past two seasons alone, the team has sold out its home venue six times, including on June 15, 2024 when it set a new single match club attendance record of 19,897. The Spirit has sold out four consecutive home playoff matches over the past two years as well, winning all four matches en route to two consecutive NWSL Championship appearances.

During the first three years of Michele Kang's majority ownership from 2022 to 2025, the club was quickly set on a path to preeminence. The Spirit underwent important growth in staffing and impactful roster-building, notably in free agent signings and international transfers in addition to its historic 2024 draft class. After the 2022 team finished a tough season near the bottom of the table, the Spirit quickly bounced back and found itself setting club records on and off the pitch during its historic 2024 and 2025 seasons. In each of the past two seasons, the Spirit has finished in the top two of the league table to earn home-field advantage in the postseason, helping the side advance to the title match both seasons.

Club History

Last season, the Spirit promoted Adrian González to be the club's Head Coach after a year and a half with the team in an Interim Head Coach and Assistant Coach role. Taking over midseason, González guided the Spirit to yet another top two finish as the club continues to establish itself as one of the NWSL's elite. At the helm, González holds a record of 19-7-9 across all competitions and has shown the ability to get the best out of a robust roster week in and week out. Following the 2025 season, the Spirit hired league-renowned Haley Carter to oversee the club's sporting side as President of Soccer Operations. Carter came to DC after building an NWSL powerhouse in Orlando that won both the Shield and Championship in 2024.

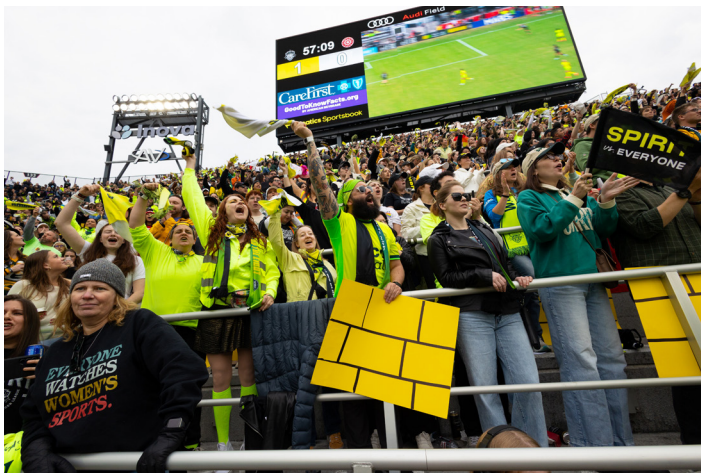

The Spirit heads into its 2026 campaign fresh off of re-signing global superstar Trinity Rodman to a three-year deal, keeping her with the club through the 2028 season. A heavily sought after free agent this past offseason, Rodman pointed to her love for the fans in DC as a major reason for decision to extend her time in the DMV. Washington will feature the likes of star players like Tara Rudd, Leicy Santos, Hal Hershfelt, Sofia Cantore, Rosemonde Kouassi and more this year when it kicks off its season on Friday, March 13 against Portland Thorns FC in a semifinal rematch.

Audi Field, the Spirit's home stadium, is a state-of-the-art soccer-specific venue that is also home to Major League Soccer's D.C. United. Located near Nationals Park in Washington, D.C.'s Buzzard Point, the stadium officially opened its doors on July 14, 2018.

In 2018, the Spirit coordinated with D.C. United to start playing select home matches at Audi Field. The Spirit played its first-ever game at the venue on August 25, 2018. A year later, on August 24, 2019, the team hosted a then-club record 19,871 fans. Throughout the 2021 and 2022 seasons, the Spirit hosted roughly half of its home matches at Audi Field before becoming full-time tenants of the venue. In 2023, the Spirit averaged nearly 11,000 fans per home contest.

The 2024 season was a banner year for Spirit crowds at Audi Field. Across 16 home matches, Washington totaled over 230,000 fans in attendance for an average of over 14,600 per match. In 2024 alone, the Spirit saw 11 of its top 14 home attendances in club history, including three sellouts. The club's June 15, 2024 match against San Diego Wave FC saw 19,897 fans come through the gates, a new single match club record. Earning the second overall seed in the 2024 NWSL Playoffs, the Spirit hosted two postseason matches, selling out the second of which in just 72 hours. On top of NWSL competition, Audi

Field also hosted two international club friendly matches in 2024 when English clubs Arsenal W.F.C. and Chelsea F.C. Women came to DC. The Spirit set a new attendance record for an NWSL-hosted international friendly with over 15,000 fans in the building for the club's match with Arsenal.

In 2025, the Spirit built on the previous season's success in impressive fashion with its highest average attendance across a full year yet. With nearly 237,000 in total attendance at Audi Field across the regular season and playoffs, Washington averaged almost 15,800 fans per home contest and became just the fourth women's professional club in the world to average over 15,000 across a full season. The club achieved another three sellouts in 2025 including both of its home playoff matches.

Audi Field has proven to be a fortress for the Spirit, providing a notable homefield advantage. In 68 total contests at the stadium, Washington has tallied a record of 37 wins, 14 losses and 17 draws for a winning percentage of nearly 67 percent in DC. The 2024 Spirit team set a new club mark with 11 home wins across all competitions.

Spirit in Bloom Kits

Starting this season, the Washington Spirit will don its new 'Spirit in Bloom' kit, embracing DC's iconic spring cherry blossom bloom in a vibrant pink and the club's Spirit Green. This year's newest kit will join the Spirit's yellow 'Shockwave' kit as the club's two uniform options as it begins its fight for another NWSL Championship in 2026.

The new kit's designation as 'Spirit in Bloom' represents the club's perpetual growth and identity as a standard-bearer in women's professional sports. The new vibrant design pairs a bright blossom pink with Spirit Green, delivering on years of fan demand for a cherry blossom-themed kit while grounding the look in the District's identity. The cherry blossom branches across the front of the kit are emblematic of the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers that help to give the District its noteworthy shape.

Among the most notable aspects of the 'Spirit in Bloom' kit is its origin. The initial design concept for the kit came from longtime Spirit staff member Ben Berczek, who served as the team Equipment Manager for five seasons from 2018 through 2022 before being promoted to Director of Operations ahead of the 2023 season. As the "kit man", Berczek was very familiar with player and fan desire for a cherry blossom uniform when he started his process.

"While brainstorming ways to create a cherry blossom uniform unique to the Spirit, the way sakura branches break away from one another reminded me of how the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers split to form the shape of DC around Audi Field," said Berczek. "The main cherry blossom branch you see on the front of the 'Spirit in Bloom' kit mimics the path the Anacostia River takes north through DC. It has been an honor to work with Nike since presenting the initial concept and see it bloom into our new primary kit. I'm very excited to see the finished product on the pitch and give players and fans alike a cherry blossom kit that they have been requesting for years."

The two-tone green base color of the kit showcases the sakura tree's summer and fall foliage and allows for the pink cherry blossoms to pop throughout the jersey. The cherry blossom pattern is replaced by a solid Spirit Green panel on the back of the kit to ensure player names and numbers are properly highlighted and legible. The back panel also blends in with the jersey's Spirit Green side striping.

CVS Health is back as the Spirit's front-of-kit partner for the fifth consecutive season as part of the company's record-setting multi-year agreement with the club, one that last week turned into a landmark deal with the league. Adorned in pink to match the highlight of the kit, the CVS Health logo fits right in with the new iconic outfit. In its third year with the club, Mars is highlighting its petcare division, with IAMS as the lead brand in its place on the right sleeve. Events DC returns as the upper back partner after joining the Spirit kit last summer while the American Beverage Association becomes the club's newest kit partner with its logo emblazoned on the lower back.

GLOBAL PARTNERSHIP

MICHELE KANG

Spirit majority owner Michele Kang is an American businesswoman, investor and philanthropist. Born and raised in South Korea, Kang came to the United States as a student to pursue her American dream. She has spent her career building businesses that challenge the status quo—and leveraging her own successes, she has focused on helping others achieve their own American dreams.

Kang was the founder and CEO of Cognosante. A visionary in the field of health information technology, Michele founded Cognosante in 2008 to disrupt and challenge the status quo in the U.S. healthcare system. Under Michele's leadership, Cognosante grew rapidly and emerged as a trusted provider of innovative health and safety solutions for key Federal health, military, and intelligence agencies as well as state health and social services agencies. In 2024, Michele sold Cognosante as she shifted her full attention on supporting and growing women's sports through her company Kynisca.

In 2020, Kang laid the groundwork for women's ownership of major sports franchises by becoming the first female co-owner of a National Women's Soccer League club, the Washington Spirit. The following year, Kang was a part of the ownership that hoisted 2021 NWSL Championship trophy and, in 2022, she became the club's majority owner — in the process becoming the first woman of color to own a majority stake in an NWSL team.

Upon taking over the Spirit in 2022, Kang has worked to make her vision of building the best club in the world. Kang made immediate investments in the team, hiring three-time NCAA champion coach Mark Krikorian as the team's President of Soccer Operations/General Manager to guide the club on the sporting side. In his three years with the team, Krikorian built rosters that earned a berth in back-to-back NWSL Championships. Her investments have included developing a bespoke sports performance and medical staff, one of the most robust such staffs in the women's game. Additionally, Kang helped negotiate a deal to secure Audi Field as the Spirit's full-time venue for home matches, a move that has proven key in supporting the club's growing attendances and developing one of the league's most recognizable home pitch advantages. Most recently, promoted Adrian Gonzalez to be the side's Head Coach after notable success as the club's Interim Head Coach and Assistant Coach. Kang also landed Haley Carter as the club's new President of Soccer Operations following the 2025 season after Carter built a double champion in Orlando, winning both the Shield and Championship.

On May 16, 2023, Kang officially announced the creation of a multi-club organization bringing the Spirit and French club OL Lyonnes, an eight-time UEFA Champions League winner, as the first teams in a network of women's soccer clubs stretching around the globe. It is the first woman-owned, women-led multi-club organization of its kind. Michele then purchased a controlling stake in England's London City Lionesses and established Kynisca Sports International, Ltd., the first woman-owned multi-team global organization dedicated to women's football.

Michele demonstrates a commitment to equity, inclusion and opportunity for all — something that is reflected in the Spirit's and Kynisca's culture and the philanthropic initiatives she established. While still with Cognosante, Michele launched the company's HBCU Partner Alliance, a new program built through a targeted collaboration with Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs). The HBCU Partner Alliance prepares students of color for promising careers in IT and government contracting. Her efforts promote economic sustainability through entrepreneurship and focus on increasing opportunities for Veterans, under- resourced young adults, and persons with disabilities. With a mission to promote the dignity of work, the Cognosante Foundation, established in 2012, focused on supporting members from underserved communities as they pursue financial independence through meaningful careers.

In recognition of her entrepreneurial success and philanthropic efforts, she has received numerous accolades, perhaps most notably the 2025 ESPYs Sports Humanitarian Award. Kang has earned other such honors including the Palm Beach Atlantic University 2019 American Free Enterprise Medal, the 2015 EY Entrepreneur of The Year® for the Washington, D.C. region and the U.S. Award for Services. She was elected along with U.S. senators, high-ranking government officials and top executives of Fortune 500 companies as an inaugural member of 100 Women Leaders in STEM in 2012 and one of the "Top 100 CEO Leaders in STEM" in 2016.

INVESTOR EARVIN "MAGIC" JOHNSON

Since becoming the Spirit's majority owner three years ago, Michele Kang has brought an impressive group of investors to the club. Most notably, basketball star and business maverick Earvin "Magic" Johnson decided to invest in the club in 2024, citing Michele's vision for and commitment to the Spirit. Johnson also holds partial ownership in the Washington Commanders (NFL), Los Angeles Dodgers (MLB), Los Angeles Sparks (WNBA), Los Angeles FC (MLS) and eSports franchise Team Liquid.

HEAD COACH

Adrián González was promoted to be the Spirit's permanent Head Coach in June 2025 after a year and a half with the club. As the Interim Head Coach in 2024, González led the Spirit to a fast start in the club's first 15 matches of the regular season, compiling a record of ten wins, four losses and one draw. After a year as an Assistant Coach, González stepped back into the top job and led the Spirit to a strong second half of the season last year, earning the two-seed and home-field advantage in the playoffs again. González led Washington through two home postseason matches and back to the NWSL Championship in his first season at the helm full-time.

After taking over as Head Coach, González promptly led the spirit to a 16-match unbeaten streak from June into late October through both NWSL regular season and Concacaf W Champions Cup group play. The streak was the longest such single-season run in club history and helped the Spirit overtake second place on the table and not look back en route to a second straight top-two finish in the NWSL.

Throughout his two seasons in DC, González has managed several players to notable accolades and been a finalist for one himself. In 2024, the Spirit had five players on year-end NWSL Best XI lists, including current players Trinity Rodman, Casey Krueger, Hal Hershfelt and Tara Rudd as well as the season's Midfielder and Rookie of the Year. In 2025, González coached Tara Rudd on her way to her first NWSL Defender of the Year award while González was named a finalist for NWSL Coach of the Year.

González brought an impressive 20-plus-year international coaching career with him to DC. Most recently, González served as the Head Coach at RCD Espanyol in Spain's Primera Federación, the country's second-tier professional women's league. Prior to his time with the women's first team, he coached various men's youth teams at Espanyol and coached in both Japan, with Ventforet Kofu, and Greece, with Xanthi FC.

In addition to his impressive coaching credentials, González brings extensive academic training to the Spirit. He holds a degree in Sport Science by INEF Lleida, two master's degrees in Sport Management and Financial Intelligence and a UEFA A license. González is originally from Barcelona, Spain.

NICOLE

Prior to playing her final three seasons with the Spirit, Barnhart spent the first nine years of her NWSL career with FC Kansas City/Utah Royals FC. Despite making only three regular season appearances with the Spirit since 2022, Barnhart still holds the all-time NWSL record for clean sheets at 52 in just 144 matches. The soccer icon also won two NWSL Championship with FC Kansas City in 2014 and 2015, making her the only keeper in league history to win back-to-back titles. Before the NWSL's founding, Barnhart played professionally in the Women's Premier Soccer League (WPSL) and Women's Professional Soccer (WPS).

On the international stage, Barnhart's career with the USWNT was just as impressive as her club career. With 54 appearances for the senior side, the goalkeeper was a valuable part of the team throughout the 2000s and early 2010s. Barnhart won two gold medals with the USWNT, at the 2008 Olympics in Beijing and at the 2012 Olympics in London.

2024: Started all 26 regular season matches and three playoff matches, seeing 2,609 minutes of action, missing only one minute. Collected seven clean sheets in the regular season, increasing her career total to 37. Led the team with 74 saves and a 1.08 goals against average (GAA). Surpassed teammate Nicole Barnhart and Kansas City's AD Franch to reach fifth-most regular season saves in league history. Became just the fifth goalkeeper in league history to reach 50 regular season wins. Saved all three penalty kicks she faced in the team's quarterfinal PK shootout against rival Gotham FC to send the Spirit to the 2024 NWSL Championship.
